

Yingzhi Zhang is a senior student in University of Toronto, specializing in Economics with a minor in statistics and a certificate in international affair. She has strong enthusiasm in financial economics and international economics. She has fruitful internship experience in finance industry. In spare time, she enjoys cooking, photographing and producing music.